EXHIBITS PLACED AT EXPOSITION

Buildings Nearly All Completed and the Grounds in Fine Shape.

FINISHING WORK NOW BEING DONE

Magnificent Exhibits the Admiration of Thousands.

(By H. Chapman Williams.)

The Jamestown Exposition is destined to be one of the greatest the world has ever witnessed. Its results will be more far-reaching than those of any Exposition. While, in great part, it is historical in commemorating the founding of the first permanent English settlement in the New World, it may in some respects be considered in the light of a World's Fair. Nearly all the greater nations are represented in one way or another, and the archaeology of their naval and military representations, as well as their products, marks an important epoch in the Exposition world, and in fact in the history of the world, and to walk through the exhibit buildings is an education that could not be secured by years of reading.

Had the Jamestown Exposition been opened on May 13th, as originally intended, instead of April 26th, there would have been no necessity for any complaint as to the unfinished condition.

The Exposition is now in full swing, with only two of its exhibit buildings in an unfinished condition, viz., the Auditorium and only require to be finished inside. These are Historic Arts and the Power and Alcohol Buildings. The latter is so far finished that the exhibits are being installed.

The Government Exhibit Palaces were complete on the opening day, and all the exhibits of the War Department, Department of Fisheries, and the Post-office Department are all in and are in themselves well worth a trip across the continent to see.

The big auditorium, which stands in the center of the grounds, was ready for the opening day, with the exception of the light and lift wings, and these are now nearly and open to visitors. Musical programs and lectures are held in this building daily.

The finishing touches are just being put on the Convention Hall, near the main entrance, and the many congresses that convene here in the month of June will hold forth in this building.

TER-CENTENNIAL IS "MAKING GOOD"

Every Scheduled Event Being Fulfilled and More.

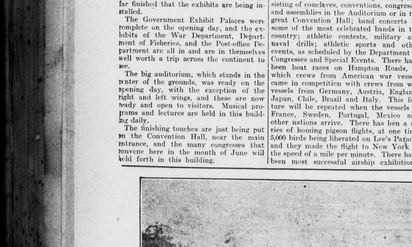
VISITORS PLEASED WITH EXPOSITION CITY

Something of Interest to All Every Hour of the Day.

That the Jamestown Tercentennial is carrying out every promise and is "making good" in every particular, is the unanimous verdict of all visitors. It is true that those who came the first few days of the Exposition found things in an unfinished condition, but even these were overcome by the sight of a many fine exhibits and many beautiful buildings, by a memorable speech by President Roosevelt, and with a view of great squadrons of ships of all nations, surpassing anything ever before witnessed in the world. Hampered by unpacked and heavier, inadequate transportation facilities and other obstacles, the Exposition stands now in a state of comparative completion, and every promise of the program has been fulfilled to the letter. The transportation question has been satisfactorily settled, and there is no longer any congestion of visitors either on the steamship lines. Three double-track trolley lines, three steam roads, and a dozen or more steamship lines connect the Exposition city with all points of interest. It has the largest and best equipped fleet of steamers in America and is the chief artillery station of the government.

Of especially deep interest to Exposition visitors is a side trip to Jamestown, the site of the first permanent English settlement in America. Williamsburg, the second capital of the colony, is also near by and has more historic associations than any other in America. The restoration of these cities will attract others and historic homes and institutions will appeal to many more.

Also among the points of interest that the tourist cannot afford to miss are the Lorry Caverns, gorgeous natural halls, glistening with stalactites, which are of the



AUDITORIUM AND PALACES OF HISTORY AND ART.

STATES' EXHIBIT PALACE.

The States Exhibit Palace, which was ready on the opening day, contains the exhibits of every state allotted space therein. The idea carried out in the erection of this building is certainly a happy one. All descriptions of products of the soil, such as ore, cotton and other agricultural products, cleverly woven into beautiful artistic designs, the resources of the various states being displayed to the very best advantage.

The Palace of Machinery and Transportation is complete, and practically all the exhibits are installed, and those which are not installed are on the grounds and will be put in as rapidly as possible.

The Liberal Arts Building, which was unfinished on the opening day, is now complete, and the exhibits are all in it.

The Palace of Manufactures and Liberal Arts, another building just completed on the opening day, but containing comparatively few exhibits, is now also under the moving machinery of exhibits.

The Food Products Building is complete, but with one or two exceptions all booths and this will also be a continuous feature of the summer.

The illumination at night is a splendid spectacle, every outline of the buildings cast their starry outlines for a distance, and the ships in the Old Roads adding their lustre to the grand sight.

was without a roof on opening day, is now complete, and the decorators are now at work on the interior, with an indication that by the time of opening the exhibits will be over by June 1st.

The various State buildings, with one exception, are in a state of completion, and the formal openings are occurring daily. These buildings embrace a large portion of the social life on the grounds, and are the scene of the large military and naval element stationed here, these occasions are very brilliant.

All of the important amusements on the Midway Plaisance, the Swiss Alps, the Streets of Cairo, the Streets of Seville, the Destruction of San Francisco, the Ruby Incubator, the Ostrich Farm, the Deep Sea Divers, the Battle of the Monitor and the Merrimac, Tours of the World, Old Jamestown, the Wild Animal Arena, Colonial Virginia, Princess Trixie, Pocahontas and the Shadow of the Cross are among them.

HISTORIC SURROUNDINGS

Many Ideal Side-Journeys Available to Exposition Visitors.

Peculiarly fortunate are the Jamestown Exposition officials in having the site of their mammoth display surrounded as it is by a region so rich in historical interest and in beauty of landscape. All about the grounds are places that no tourist can afford to pass by.

The city of Norfolk itself makes a strong appeal to the sightseer, especially to the tourist interested in the history of the United States and in the earlier story of the colony. In old St. Paul's Church can be seen a huge cannon ball imbedded there in January 1, 1776, when Lord Dunmore bombarded and almost destroyed the town. Portsmouth has one of the great navy yards of the General Government. Virginia Beach and Cape Henry, on the Atlantic coast, are reached by trolley from Norfolk and are great summer resorts and bathing places.

While all this was going on launch after launch came in from the American warships, each having from four to six cutters, loaded to the gunwales with stalwart American sailors and marines, with their bands.

At the landing, Admiral Harrington, and General Grant, together with the Exposition officials, were gathered to welcome the foreign representatives.

Austrians, Belgians, Chinese and the representatives from other powers landed one after another, just as rapidly as the launches could get to the float, and then came the stellar figure of the day, Grand Baron Kuroki.

No sooner had the Japanese general stepped ashore than one of the batteries thundered forth a salute of seventeen guns. The Japanese were lustily cheered as they were driven to the stand, and were continually kept busy returning the salutes of soldiers and civilians, and bowing to the ovations. Then the line, with waved handkerchiefs and fans with en-

KING EDWARD'S CUP

A Magnificent Trophy From a Royal and Gracious Hand.

(By W. H. Bright.)

After an interview with King Edward VII of England, Sir Thomas Lipton, M. Kohlsat, Commissioner General of the Jamestown Exposition, gave out the following to the American Register, published in London:

His Majesty King Edward VII has, on more than one occasion, graciously placed in manifest his sympathy and friendly interest in the Jamestown Exposition, whose gates were formally opened on the 26th of April. His Majesty not only expressed and participated in the opening exercises. But on no occasion has His Majesty's good will been more conspicuously shown than by the presentation of a handsome cup to be competed for during the yacht races that are to take place next September 15. These will be a feature that in that altogether novel and interesting international exposition, intended to commemorate the first step in the American nation, and at which a deputation of the chief men of the friendly mother country has been ordered by their governments to be present at the opening of the corbilla ingression of the President of the United States, there will be assembled the chief military and naval display or reunion, and all water sports, of which there will be a large number, and the largest gathering of men-of-war from all quarters of the globe that has ever been assembled since the

The cup and cover are ornamented with handsome inlaid scroll mask and strap work. It is 19 inches from inches high, which including handles, twenty-two inches; diameter in body, twelve inches; weight 278 ounces."

The inscription on the front bears the engraved personal monogram and crown of His Majesty, with the inscription: "The British and Roman memorials VII beautifully and artistically interlaced. Immediately below it appears the following inscription:

On the reverse appears the engraved text:

"This cup to be competed for by yachts of Class J, in the International Races at the Jamestown Exposition in September, 1907. Won by ——."

SPLENDID HISTORICAL EXHIBIT.

The Division of History and Education of the Jamestown Exposition has received assurances from the Colonial Dames of America, according to the announcement of Dr. J. A. C. Chandler, director of history, that that society has collected a large and splendid exhibit of historical relics and will exhibit at the Exposition.

These relics include many historical curios. Among them is old silver used in the palace of Lord Dunmore; old silver of the Claiborne and Bowling families, and a receipt given by Patrick Henry to Lord Dunmore when the latter's palace powder stolen out of the old powderhorn at Williamsburg.

The visitors to the Jamestown Exposition express wonder and delight at the permanent appearance of the buildings presenting as they do a great colonial city.

ACCOMMODATIONS AT JAMESTOWN

Exposition Visitors Find Rates Reasonable and Plenty of Places to Stay.

As to the accommodations furnished by hotels, boarding and rooming houses, and the hundreds of private residences that are thrown open, the latter of which will accommodate 25,000 people at $1 per day for rooms, it can safely be said that all who come will be cared for. The rates, as a rule, are no higher than at other exposi-tions. There are many good restaurants to fifty cents, and rooms can be had at from fifty cents to one dollar. Of course if you want to go to a first-class hotel, it will cost you from $2 to $3 per day, but that is no more than you pay at first-class hotels in large cities at all times.

THE THREE HUNDREDTH ANNIVERSARY

Magnificent Celebration May 13 at the Ter-Centennial

On the grounds of the Exposition, May 13th, the United States Government celebrated the three hundredth anniversary of the time that Bridge colony of Anglishmen, under the leadership of John Smith, went ashore on May 13, 1607, making the settlement from which this nation has grown.

In this celebration the world powers joined with this republic of the West in observing the real day of its nativity, but not one of them in a more startling race. From the Orient came Japan and China; Belgium and Austria and Italy represented the Continental countries and Latin-America, was represented by Brazil, Mexico, the Argentine Republic and Chili.

The guns of six nations joined with those of America in a grand national salute, and thousands of people cheered themselves hoarse, while sailors from different ships of the different countries vied with each other for friendly supremacy in rowing contests, and, finally, when night came, the darkness was turned to day by the brightness of the illumination ashore and afloat.

It was just about 9 o'clock when the marines began disembarking at Tercentenary Landing. At that time a stumpy little man from the Argentine cruiser, President Sarmiento, came puffing between the Gosport and Susan Constant piers into John Smith Basin. Then the Japanese, American jackies and sea-soldiers marched in their perfect step to the place assigned them in the parade formation.

While all this was going on launch after launch came in from the American warships, each having from four to six cutters, loaded to the gunwales with stalwart American sailors and marines, with their bands.

At the landing, Admiral Harrington, and General Grant, together with the Exposition officials, were gathered to welcome the foreign representatives.

GRAND REUNION AT JAMESTO

Descendents of the Band of Patriots to Gather There.

GREAT FOURTH OF JULY CELEBRA

Important and Interesting Featu Jamestown Exposition.

The Fourth of July celebration at Jamestown Exposition promises to be one of the most unique, as well as one of the most impressive, ever held in the United States.

The Thomas Jefferson Memorial Association of the United States recently met and through its secretary, William B. Kean, its plan for the celebration of the fourth before the officers of the Exposition Association plans a grand reunion of the descendants of the signers of the Declaration read by a literal descendant, Thomas Jefferson, author of the document. In addition to these the day is proposed to have also a grand and patriotic music by a symphonic chorus of 500 voices.

The Board of Governors of the Exposition has shown its approval of the plan by adopting the program of the day. The celebration will be conducted under the auspices of the Exposition direction and of the Association.

The following letter of approval of the movement has been received from Governor Swanson:

"My Dear Sir:—I unreservedly approve of the project which the Thomas Jefferson Memorial Association of the United States has in hand. It seems to me that a meeting of the signers of the Declaration of Independence on or about the anniversary of the date when this immortal document was signed would be a most impressive feature in connection with the Jamestown Exposition.

"Such a reunion should certainly have a tendency to stimulate patriotic sentiment and arouse among those who are within the radius of the influence of the beneficial efforts of the fathers of the republic to establish a new nation and impress on it the best ideas of a free government.

"Yours very sincerely,
"GROVE CLEVELAND."

OLD CHURCH RESTORED.

Since the old church at Jamestown has far gone to admit of restoration, Episcopalians of Virginia have undertaken the work of restoration, and by the next older church in which they have been continuously held. The old Ruten church at Williamsburg, Washingtonas, the Marshalls, the Custis, the Randolphs, and the Lees of Virginia, and in the restoration the people have been named for promising one of foreign representatives.

King Edward has donated the bible of his predecessors gave the silver communion service still in use, and the letter is a gift of President Roosevelt, who has always taken the greatest interest in the and has leaf his influence to its success.

The old church is an object of deep interest to Jamestown Exposition visitors.

GOVERNOR FRANCIS DELOSPH

Ex-Governor David R. Francis of Missouri, who was at the head of the Louisiana Purchase Exposition, is delighted with Jamestown affair and says that everything will be in perfect order and completed the first of June, and that there is plenty to see even to repay the visitor.

VETERANS AT EXPOSITION.

Mexican War Soldiers Will Gather at Jamestown August 22.

The Jamestown Exposition has assigned August 22 as Mexican War Veterans' Day, and has offered the use of the Exposition auditorium for the annual convention and association of the Veterans of the Mexican War will attend.

There will be present veterans from many States, although the average age is now 70 years.

The reunion will be notable, being one of the last gatherings of such old men of the soldiers, in all probability for the last time to recall the incidents of the struggle of sixty years ago. In that army that went to Mexico—about 70,000 men—there are now only about 30,000 men who survive, and those who are left in no doubt make an effort to be in attendance at the reunion.

The veterans will spend sometime in and upon leaving here many ll be left behind.

ST ON EYALL IN STATE FEDERATION

NFOLK, VA., June 4.—The annual session of the Virginia ation of Labor met today in Labor Hall, corner of City Hall Church and Bute Streets, at 10:30 by James M. O'Connor, of Norfolk, president of the body. Immediately after which adjournment had taken place, and the committees were announced.

Mayor Ashburn welcomed the body short in his accounts, and that he learned Saturday that an auditor was coming to examine his books. He took charge of the books on the 1st of January, 1906, and from that time forward he would be sure to have them.

Secretary-treasurer Harry Lloyd, of Richmond, then read his report, which was ordered by the Council.

The new figures are awaited with great profound shiver of the crowd as it saw exactly what strides the Federation had made during the past year. The showing: It is expected, a fine one, as the Federation of Richmond gained at least 10,000 during the year, increasing a poor of Henrico county.

JUDGE PRENTIS QUALIFIES.

Succeeds Judge Prentis on Bench.

Judge Robert R. Prentis, who was appointed by Governor Swanson, to succeed the late Judge Crump, member of the State Corporation Commission, qualified before Clerk Scott today at noon, and forthwith began the duties of said position.

Brother of Judge Prentis, who was accompanied by Mrs. Prentis, and a few friends, had the choice of the bench, would have taken the oath in public. Captain A. E. Willard and Mr. Henry C. Stuart, the other two members of the present, as was also Judge Crump, the retiring member.

It was the original purpose of Judge Crump to qualify yesterday, but as Court was closed by reason of the Confederate reunion, he could not put this place.

Judge Prentis had been mentioned as a member of the State Corporation Commission today, the fact and elected the appointment of the chairman.

He is considered quite a compliment to Judge Prentis, as the honor has been bestowed upon one of the other two members. The law gives the commission to choose one of its members as chairman, and the fact that Judge Crump has been chairman, by no means that the honor would necessarily go to the former.

BLEW UP THE CAR.

SAN FRANCISCO, CAL., June 4.—One of the worst outrages since the strike began took place last night when a street car was blown up by a nitro-glycerine bomb, and the lives of four persons were endangered. The car was wrecked by the explosion of a package of the explosive placed on the track by a man who wrecked the car by means of a delicately arranged system of placing the bomb on the track and exploding it by striking car man.

Mrs. Harry Thaw Has Moved Into House on the Right.

Evelyn Thaw Rents House and Will Do Cooking.

NEW YORK, June 4.—Evelyn Thaw is keeping house! She's going to cook, too, and her friends say, lead the simple life.

With a great deal of sympathy for Thaws have moved from the Hotel Majestic to the more quiet and secluded Whereabouts of Evelyn were not known even to her lawyers, the fact finally leaked out that she had rented house in the suburbs, where she and Harry would remain in seclusion all summer. A photograph—the first taken—shows Evelyn at the door of the house, where Evelyn will live.

The new journal displayed that Evelyn had rented for the summer the house of Mrs. Mary Lloyd Baldwin, at New Rochelle, and that the lease was signed by Evelyn herself. Evelyn will do her own cooking, and will have no servant. Mrs. Baldwin's house is a cozy little cottage, with a garden in front.

Evelyn's self-imposed exile does not mean that the American people have forgotten her. Evelyn is still the most talked-of woman in the country, and her every movement is watched by the Yellow Press.

Chief of Police Dinan Indicted for Malfeasance.

SAN FRANCISCO, CAL., June 4.—Chief of Police Dinan is charged today by a formal complaint filed by the grand jury with wilful and corrupt misconduct in office. The charge is based upon the allegation that he secured the release on acquittal of a defendant without the knowledge of the District Attorney. The defendant in the case was Mayor Schmitz's manager, Abraham Ruef. The charge against Chief Dinan was made by Assistant District Attorney Heney, who had attempted to tamper with the jurors in the Ruef case. Chief Dinan was accused by Assistant District Attorney Heney, who had attempted to tamper with the jurors in the Ruef case. Chief Dinan was accused by Assistant District Attorney Heney, who had attempted to tamper with the jurors in the Ruef case.

He said that after a friend left his office, about midnight Sunday night, he filled a large box with cigarettes, piled other boxes on top of it in the middle of the floor and set fire to the whole heap. Then he fled and hid himself in the Presidio reservation.

Dinan's friends say he was perfectly short in his accounts, and that he learned Saturday that an auditor was coming to examine his books. He took charge of the books on the 1st of January, 1906, and from that time forward he would be sure to have them.

MADRID, SPAIN, June 4.—Threats of reprisals made by anarchists unless Ferrer, Nakens, and the other alleged accomplices of Morral, in the attempt to assassinate King Alfonso and Queen Victoria on their wedding day, are acquitted at their trials which began yesterday, have greatly alarmed the city. The city awoke today to find huge placards posted at many places warning the government of further bomb outrages if the alleged conspirators are condemned. The police removed the placards, but their appearance served to give the whole city a scare.

It is feared an attempt may be made to blow up the building where the trial is being held, or that attacks may be made upon some of the Ministers.

A passer-by was amazed at seeing an Irishman pushing a dollar bill through a crack in a board walk.

"What under the sun are you doing that for?" he asked.

SET FIRE TO PIER TO HIDE HIS CRIME

George P. Decker, Express Agent at Old Point Comfort, Confesses to Both Shortage and Arson.

NEWPORT NEWS, VA., June 4.—Short in his accounts and expecting the arrival of an auditor of his company, George P. Decker, agent for the United States Express Company at Old Point Comfort, yesterday morning robbed the safe in his office and set fire to the pier adjacent which the office situated.

In a few minutes the pier house was enveloped in flames, and the booming of fire alarm guns called out a large delachment of soldiers. All efforts to save the pier house or any part of it were futile, and by 10 o'clock that fair-light came only the pier itself was standing, and a pile of smoking debris marked where the office of the Adams Express Company, United States Express Company, the Old Line Express Company, Old Dominion Steamship Company and other lines had stood.

All books and papers, large quantities of freight and express and other valuable property was destroyed, and the loss will be considerable, though not so great as first thought. The building itself was worth only a few thousand dollars.

Decker was arrested, and about noon Chief Detective Bradford, who had been sent for by the express company, arrived from the Jamestown Exposition, took the handcuffs from the prisoner's wrists, charged him with arson at the time, and the arrest was kept secret, but yesterday afternoon Decker broke down and made a complete confession.

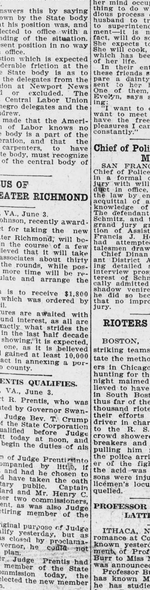
He said that after a friend left his office, about midnight Sunday night, he filled a large box with excelsior, piled other boxes on top of it in the middle of the floor and set fire to the whole heap. Then he fled and hid himself in the Presidio reservation.

Dinan's friends say he was perfectly short in his accounts, and that he learned Saturday that an auditor was coming to examine his books. He took charge of the books on the 1st of January, 1906, and from that time forward he would be sure to have them.

Secretary-treasurer Harry Lloyd, of Richmond, then read his report, which was ordered by the Council.

The new figures are awaited with great profound shiver of the crowd as it saw exactly what strides the Federation had made during the past year. The showing: It is expected, a fine one, as the Federation of Richmond gained at least 10,000 during the year, increasing a poor of Henrico county.

ELECTRICIANS IN CONVENTION



LESS HASTE, MORE PLEASURE.

SHORT ITEMS.

The lack that women of today feel most keenly and deplore most heartily is the lack of time.

"Positively," said a prominent club and society leader, "positively, between my club engagements my philanthropic and historic work, and the social calls I am compelled to make, I have no time for home duties at all. I try to get into the nursery for a short while each day, but I have to leave the management of the children principally to my governess, and, if she were not the reliable, trustworthy person that she is, I do not know how I should get along at all.

Probably the lack of time is what has killed the spirit of neighborliness among women who lead the complex and strenuous lives of the present. It used to be the case that in Virginia communities women took a kindly interest in whatever concerned the welfare of those around them. If a wedding was on hand some one was sure to offer to help in the cake baking. Some one else took the decorations in charge. The responsibility of the occasion was light because so many willing hands rendered it so. The bride started happily on her wedding trip knowing that she was speeded by the best wishes of those who knew her
